APPLE iMAC 'NEW AND INFERIOR' LAWSUIT SAYS

Fortune magazine reported that a lawsuit has been filed against Apple alleging that the company falsely claimed that the screen resolutions for two of its iMacs were essentially the same. The class action was filed in U.S. District Court in San Jose by Brian Kabateck, managing partner of Kabateck Brown Kellner LLP. "Apple is duping its customers into thinking they're buying 'new and improved' when, in fact, they're getting stuck with 'new and inferior,'" Kabateck said.
