ARE YOUR CLIENTS VIOLATING STATE OR FEDERAL WIRETAPPING LAWS?

Richard Kellner and Evan Zucker wrote an article Are You or Your Clients Violating State or Federal Wiretapping Laws? for the March 2010 issue of Century City Lawyer, a publication of the Century City Bar Association. The article educates the general legal public about federal and state laws relating to eavesdropping and wiretapping. They write that a great deal of the publicity in the last few years regarding wiretapping has centered on the world of spies, government espionage and investigator abuse. Yet, at the same time, the potential for wiretapping liability in the business world is all too real and, unfortunately, common.

Kabateck Brown Kellner is counsel to several plaintiffs in the Anthony Pellicano wiretapping case and recently received the first settlement of any lawsuit in this case.
