

PUBLISHED IN THE LOS ANGELES DAILY JOURNAL
January 14, 2011

KAMALA HARRIS: TACKLING CONSUMER ABUSE THROUGH TOUGH TIMES

On January 14, the Los Angeles Daily Journal published an Opinion column by Brian Kabateck and Jon Atabek on California's newly-elected Attorney General, Kamala Harris. They note in their commentary that Harris has a proven track record of protecting consumers as the San Francisco District Attorney. At the same time and during the budget crunch, Harris may have to rely more on private sector resources, including the private attorney general mechanism and the False Claims Act, to root out fraud and abuse.

"By using creative solutions like these, Harris can cover much more ground using few resources," Kabateck and Atabek opine.